Why?

Here at Canyon, our passion for riding doesn't stop when we step off the bike. From hitting the trails to life in the city, we need gear that's both tough and wearable for daily life. That's why we've crafted our rideable street-wear collection—bringing high-performance apparel to the trails, streets, and everywhere in between.

Drawing inspiration from the '90s with a modern twist, our new street clothing line is all about blending retro vibes with forward-thinking design. Just like our bikes, these threads are built to handle whatever the day throws your way.

What is Canyon CLLCTV?

At Canyon we like to show our love for riding even when we're not on two wheels. On the bike, or off the bike, sometimes we need a casual but highly durable wardrobe that can easily transition between those two states. That's why we created our rideable streetwear collection. High performance ride-ready threads for trails, for city streets and everywhere in between.

Inspired by the direction of 'a 90s soul with a futuristic heartbeat', this brand new street fashion collection not only pays homage to the iconic 90s aesthetic but also propels it into the future, in line with what you expect from us: cutting-edge designs, inspired for riding.

Canyon CLLCTV Rideable Streetwear

On the bike, our unisex CLLCTV clothing allows riders to dress in a more relaxed style and to express themselves beyond what performance and technical garments can offer.

But we always put the riders and their skills at the centre of our fits to make our CLLCTV garments not just wearable, but rideable too.
